U-turn over cuts to NHS services

Health group drops planned changes to vulnerable adult and IVF treatments

RACHAEL MCMENEMY
@rach_mc94CN

Have your say at cambridge-news.co.uk/all-about/haverhill

CUTS to vital services have been abandoned by West Suffolk Clinical Commissioning Group after a public outcry.

WSCCG along with Ipswich and East Suffolk Clinical Commissioning Group (IESCCG) had been considering cuts to the IVF programme and services for marginalised and vulnerable adults (MVA).

The cuts would have saved £1 million from the groups' combined budgets.

Members of the WSCCG governing body made the decision yesterday morning.

Almost 1,400 people responded to a public consultation held by the two CCGs.

Haverhill Mayor David Roach said: "I think it's really, really good news, especially for the vulnerable adults."

"The transport to Ipswich is difficult and it's ludicrous to get there. "I think just positive commonsense has prevailed."

Had the cuts gone ahead, the Haverhill clinic for marginalised and vulnerable adults, such as refugees and homeless people, which is held every Wednesday would have been shut and patients would have had to rely on poor travel links to Ipswich instead.

IVF services will continue as two cycles for women up to the age of 40 and one cycle for women up to the age of 42.

A decision was meant to be made in September but was deferred until January after public consultation.

Dr Christopher Browning, chairman of WSCCG, said: "I am extremely pleased at how many people this engagement reached which highlights the commitment of West Suffolk CCG to talk with and listen to the views of our local population."

"While these decisions are ultimately good news, we must not underestimate the continued financial challenge facing the CCG."

Council tax rise approved

RACHAEL MCMENEMY
@rach_mc94CN

RESIDENTS are facing a 13 per cent rise in council tax.

At meetings on Tuesday night, both Haverhill Town Council and Suffolk County Council chose to increase their share of council tax.

For band B households, the most common in Haverhill, the rise is equivalent to 17p a week.

Suffolk County Council has increased its precept by 3 per cent to fund adult social care.

Speaking at the full meeting of Haverhill Town Council, mayor David Roach said: "It's a difficult decision but if we want to keep our town with things our residents' love, all our local community groups, then these are the decisions we have to be mindful of."

In total the increase in the town council's precept will amount to £8.80 a year for band B households.

Town clerk Colin Poole said: "Whilst 10 per cent sounds a lot, it needs to be put into perspective. Our 10 per cent is less than one-third of the county council's 3 per cent increase."

Cllr Tony Brown said: "I'm extremely proud of what Haverhill Town Council does. Every penny gets spent on the town and the people of this town."

AGAINST: Cllr Paula Fox and Cllr Quillon Fox voted against the rise in council tax

Cllr Maureen Byrne voiced concerns about the apparently significant increase.

Speaking at the meeting she said: "I think 10 per cent is quite a hike. There is still lots of poverty in this town, that £8.80 is two meals for some people."

Cllr Pat Hanlon was also unhappy about the rise but accepted that borough and county cuts to local services funding meant the town council was under more pressure to provide.

He pointed to the apprenticeship schemes run with One Haverhill and town events like the fireworks as examples of town-funded projects.

He said: "We are doing what the borough and county council should be doing. For the town we should put it up but I don't like doing it."

Cllr Quillon Fox, who voted against the proposal, questioned why the rise was so much more than the 1.2 per cent increase last year.

The vote to raise Haverhill Town Council's precept was opposed by only two councillors. Cllr Paula Fox and Cllr Quillon Fox both voted against the increase.

POLICE

Month sees fall in crime figures

HAVERHILL Safer Neighbourhood Team has seen a decrease in crime.

November figures showed cases of anti-social behaviour more than halved from the previous month.

In October there were 82 incidents of anti-social behaviour compared to just 40 in November.

In the past month there have also been falls in the numbers of reported burglaries, serious sexual offences, violence causing injury and drug trafficking.

Since June 2016 there has generally been a downward trend in most crimes with spikes at certain times of the year.

In July there were 86 reported cases of anti-social behaviour.

Inspector Danny Cooper put these spikes down to the time of year, saying that school holidays tend to lead to higher incidents of anti-social behaviour.

October had the highest number of reports of serious sexual offences for the town at nine. There were five in November.

However, in June there was just one reported case of a serious sexual offence.

June and July also had the highest incidents of violence with an injury with 49 and 41 respectively.

Inspector Cooper said: "We will keep working to reduce these numbers."

BRAVERY: A Commonwealth War Graves Commission stonemason adds the MM inscription to the gravestone of Pte William Bannister, inset

HONOUR: The new addition to Pte Bannister's grave

Hero's medal is recognised

JULIAN MAKEY
@JulianMakeyCN

A FIRST World War soldier's forgotten heroism has been marked on his gravestone almost 100 years after his death.

Private William Bannister's war grave at Hildersham churchyard has now been altered to show that he had been awarded the Military Medal (MM), which was missed in the original inscription.

A mason from the Commonwealth War Graves Commission had to cut a new piece of stone into the memorial so that MM could be added after Pte Bannister's name.

Pte Bannister died of his wounds in the Eastern General Hospital, Cambridge, in December 1917, and was buried in Hildersham churchyard.

He had been awarded the medal for bravery in the field, although the full details of his heroism are not known.

Andrew Westwood-Bate, churchwarden and treasurer at Holy Trinity Church, Hildersham, said Pte Bannister, who was born at Barnardiston, had served in the 11th Battalion of the Suffolk Regiment, which was the Cambridge and Isle of Ely battalion, recruiting locally.

He said: "The Suffolk Regiment was badly affected in the Battle of the Somme and in battles in 1917 and 1918. "Willie survived the devastation of the first day of the Somme on the July 1, 1916, for the Battalion, ending up back in the trenches in October 1917.

"In an attack on October 21-22, the battalion lost a good deal of men. Willie was severely injured after displaying exemplary bravery," Mr Westwood-Bate said.

"Back in Cambridge, he was treated at the 1st Eastern General Hospital, where the University Library is today.

"On December 4, 1917, he succumbed to his wounds and was laid to rest in Hildersham churchyard, as his father was a horse keeper in the village at the time."

He said that in January 1918 the King announced in the gazette that Pte Bannister had been awarded the Military Medal. This was recorded on the war memorial in the church, but not on the gravestone.

Mr Westwood-Bate said:

"It is the only war grave in the churchyard, and this year will be the 100th anniversary of his death."

He said the fact that Pte Bannister's gravestone was being corrected a century on was something to be welcomed.

"Fascinatingly, as there is not enough room to add the information, a new bit of stone has been inserted," he added.

He said that although the insert was paler than the rest of the stone, it would blend in over the years.

Mr Westwood-Bate said Pte Bannister, the son of Walter and Emily Bannister, was shown in the census of 1911 as working as a teenage farm labourer in Impington.

He joined A Company of the 11th Battalion in 1914, together with many of his friends.

The Commonwealth War Graves Commission, which maintains war graves and also celebrates its centenary this year, said it did carry out alterations to gravestones from time to time when new information came in.

A spokesman for the Suffolk Regiment Museum in Bury St Edmunds said: "I am glad the MM is being added. I approve of that."

Man bailed after drugs find

A HAVERHILL man was arrested on Wednesday after police stopped his car.

Police pulled over the 31-year-old man because of the way he was driving.

The man was driving along the B1061 at Thurlow when he was stopped just before 5pm.

He was arrested on suspicion of driving under the influence of drugs.

Police also recovered what they described as 'an offensive weapon' and also a quantity of drugs.

The man was released on police bail until March 2 when he must report back to Bury St Edmunds police station.

Devoted son is walking 566 miles in dad's boots

RACHAEL MCMENEMY

@rach_mc94CN

A LOYAL son is getting ready to trek 566 miles in memory of his late dad.

Liam Staples, 27, from Haverhill, is walking the Camino Frances trail, a walk his dad Mark had longed to join him on.

Liam will wear his dad's boots during his trek so his best friend can take every step with him, just as they planned.

Liam said: "I'm taking his walking boots so he is doing every step with me."

"Me and my dad we were more like brothers, like Bonnie and Clyde, we did everything together. He was my best friend."

The duo had planned to set out for their second attempt at the walk in August last year, but Mark was diagnosed with terminal cancer a week before they were due to fly out.

The landscape designer said: "We planned to do it first in 2014 and then five miles into day three he got a hernia and we had to fly home.

"So we decided to do it in 2016, he got himself all ship shape but then we got this devastating news."

Mark, 52, died just a week before Christmas, spurring Liam to finish the journey his dad would never get to take.

During the seven-week trek Liam will burn nearly 72,000 calories, the equivalent of two stone while taking nearly 2 million steps.

Liam will trek over the Pyrenees mountains, stopping off for only one or two days at a time in cities such as Pamplona and Santiago de Compostela, that his dad desperately wanted to see.

The walk is 500 miles but Liam is adding another 66 so he can walk to the sea where he will say a prayer engraved on a stone his dad got for their first trip in 2014.

Liam is aiming to raise £10,000 for St Nicholas Hospice in Bury St Edmunds where staff looked after his dad before he died. You can donate at <https://www.just-giving.com/fundraising/one-emotionaljourney>

FUNDRAISING

Get ready to swim for charity

SWIMATHON 2017 is calling on people to pull on their trunks and costumes for this year's 30th anniversary event.

A total of 10 pools across Suffolk are participating in the event which is the world's biggest annual fundraising swim.

Haverhill Leisure Centre is one of more than 600 hosting this year's Swimathon between April 7-9.

Each year Swimathon organisers pick a charity as their main fundraising partner – this year it is Marie Curie.

Swimmers can challenge themselves to an individual swim of 5k, 2.5k or 1.5k, or they can split the workload by working as a team to cover 5k or 1.5k.

Olympic gold medalist and Swimathon president Duncan Goodhew said: "This year, Swimathon again provides a fantastic opportunity to bring together swimmers of all ages and abilities to raise vital funds for Marie Curie to continue their work caring for and supporting people living with a terminal illness, and their families."

ACCIDENT

Man injured in car crash with lorry

A MAN suffered suspected spinal injuries following a crash involving his car and a lorry on the A143 at the Kedington crossroads.

The driver of the Lexus IS was taken to West Suffolk hospital but his injuries are not thought to be life threatening.

The accident was reported by a police officer who spotted it while on patrol at 4pm on Tuesday.

Police, an ambulance and two fire crews were sent to the scene. The fire service said it attended to assist the other emergency services.

Firefighters also provided some first aid at the scene. The road was closed both ways at the crossroads.

According to the East of England Ambulance Service the man also had a possible broken leg.

COMMUNITY

ON THE GO: Lesley Ashford Smith, getting ready to head off on one of her home visits

New scheme to tackle poverty

REACH Community Projects, a charity which tackles poverty, has launched a programme of home visits in Haverhill.

The group usually runs debt advisory services and offers food parcels from its hub on the Clements Estate, but after piloting home visits in October, the group has rolled out the visits on a permanent basis.

Lesley Ashford-Smith, REACH's community outreach adviser, runs the home visits and believes that they will help the charity to help more people in need.

For those unable to leave their homes because of mental or physical reasons, these home visits have proved invaluable.

Mrs Ashford-Smith said: "People are just more comfortable. One elderly lady had lots of debts and didn't know what to do. Her friends referred her to us.

"She was suffering with poor health and while at her home, I could see that just getting up from where she was sitting took a lot of effort.

"I could only do two home visits over many months and that was due to her cancelling because she kept falling ill. A home visit means the clients will have all the information at home which allows me to gather almost everything in one, two-hour visit.

"Now, her situation is under control and she is a lot more at peace without the debt sitting over her."

REACH hopes home visits can stop pride fettering people from asking for help. During the October pilot scheme the charity also started a weekly meeting in the Haverhill Job centre every Tuesday as part of a proactive poverty prevention scheme.

People can request a home visit after being referred to REACH by social care or the job centre. They can also go to the Clements Estate hub and ask about a home visit.

MP should act over A1307

ANOTHER terrible and sad time due to the latest fatal accident on the A1307.

And again you will read the words from chambers of commerce and other committees and traffic groups about not enough being done for all the users on this road. That is absolutely correct, but there is silence from the MP for the Haverhill area Mr Hancock. I thought by electing your choice of candidate, then they would not only speak up for their constituents but try and actually help them.

Can he not stop everything in his 'hectic' schedule and actually show the people of Haverhill what he really is honestly trying to do about the A1307? And this instead of forming new traffic forums, committee groups and various network groups, that plan meetings about meetings.

Over to you Mr Hancock.

CHARMING: Centre Stage's pantomime Cinderella didn't disappoint

Full house thoroughly entertained

Centre Stage pantomime Cinderella at Haverhill Arts Centre, reviewed by Louise Cohen.

IT WAS a full house on Sunday at Haverhill Arts Centre when we went to watch Cinderella, this year's pantomime by Centre Stage and it didn't disappoint.

Great acting, comedy, singing and dancing kept on coming as the story of Cinders unfolded. It was lovely to see actors new and old obviously enjoying themselves up on the stage.

I particularly liked Buttons and the Prince who played their roles with enthusiasm and my favourite scene was when Dandini and the Prince had swapped places and Dandini had been taken by all the screaming girls. When he returned all covered in lipstick he made me laugh as he limped back onto stage.

It was lovely to see a complete age range from a young girl who danced so well to some of the older members who have appeared year after year.

Also notable was the great staging and a very clever and funny way of changing the scenery in slow motion which made the audience realise that as well as the actors, there is also a lot of stage work to be done to ensure the production's success.

The audience participation at the end with Buttons and the Fairy Godmother had us listening to some great jokes by children from the audience.

All in all, another great production. Well done Centre Stage and see you next year.

Concern over increase in disabled hate crime

SAMAR MAGUIRE
SamarMaguireCN

RECORDED hate crime incidents towards disabled people in West Suffolk have risen by more than 700 per cent.

According to figures released after a Freedom of Information request, in 2015, there were six recorded incidents for the entire year – but in 2016, that figure rose to 49.

Other forms of recorded hate crime in West Suffolk seem to be dropping.

Vicky McDermott, chief executive of Papworth Trust, which manages the West Suffolk Disability Resource Centre, told the News: "Disability hate crime has no place in our communities and we must always do everything we can to prevent disabled people becoming the target of abuse."

"Sadly we know that this is an issue that is getting worse but importantly we are working with disabled people to enable them to be empowered to speak out when they are victims of hate crime."

"We would encourage any disa-

bled person who is subjected to hate crime abuse to report this to the police on 101 as quickly as possible."

The disability figures point towards incidents in places such as Haverhill, Newmarket, Mildenhall, Exning and Bury St Edmunds, among others.

However, other forms of recorded hate crime in West Suffolk are dropping.

Recorded racial hate crimes dropped from 117 incidents in 2015 to 99 in 2016.

CONCERN: Matthew Hancock

Religious hate crimes dropped from four to three.

Sexual orientation hate crimes in West Suffolk dropped from 21 to 14.

Transgender hate crimes dropped from 2 to 1.

Matthew Hancock, MP for West Suffolk, said: "It is very good news that crime is falling in Suffolk, but the number of crimes against disabled people is a cause for concern. People with disabilities deserve our help, support and compassion. They are members of society like anyone else and should be treated as such. Hate crimes against people with disabilities should not be tolerated and we must do everything we can to tackle abhorrent attitudes towards those with disabilities."

Chief Inspector Jo Garrard, from Suffolk Police, said: "The increase in the number of [disability] reports could be down to a growing awareness of the issue and an increase in the confidence of individuals to report such incidents to police."

"We know such crimes are under reported and we need all communities in Suffolk to know that abusive behaviour based on disability, sexuality, gender, race or religion is unacceptable and that it should be reported to police."

"Help and advice is available and all reports will be taken seriously and investigated. By reporting hate crime we have the best opportunity to stop it happening to someone else."

Gas leak leaves people feeling ill

A BURST gas main left some Haverhill residents feeling light-headed on Monday.

The medium pressure gas main was damaged during work being carried out on Ehringhausen Way.

A digger hit the pipe and National Grid engineers worked through Monday night to repair the damage.

Engineers finished the temporary repair at 3.20am on Tuesday.

Residents took to social media on Monday night to share their concern over a strong smell of gas and some said it made them feel unwell.

The main complaints were headaches and dizziness.

A National Grid spokesperson said that a permanent repair would be carried out some time in the next 12 months.

He also confirmed engineers revisited the site on Ehringhausen Way to check the temporary repair later on Tuesday morning and were happy with it.

EXPANSION PLANS: Debbie Corsby, left, with Katie Ryan, of Lloyds Bank Commercial Banking.

Nursery changes hands

AN established nursery has changed ownership and has announced plans to increase its childcare services.

Debbie Corsby has worked at Happy Days Childcare in Stradishall for 14 years and has used a £120,000 loan from Lloyds Bank Commercial Banking with business partner Jim Morgan to buy the business from its previous owners.

They now plan to extend the premises to increase its current head count from 62 to 86 next year.

Happy Days looks after children aged 0-5 and also works with local primary schools and organises day trips and after-school clubs for children up to the age of 11.

Debbie said: "Happy Days is the only nursery in Stradishall and as the area grows, the demand for high quality childcare increases, which means it's an important time to commit to expansion plans."

EDUCATION

Work starts on school expansion

COUPALS Academy has started the groundwork for a new building.

The Haverhill primary decided in consultation with the infrastructure team at Suffolk County Council to expand after there was a shortage of reception class places last autumn.

Coupals Academy took on an extra reception class in 2016 but with the town set to keep growing, the school decided it had to expand.

Portable classrooms have been used before to cope with demand.

Head teacher David Maguire said: "It's going to be an ongoing issue because the town has grown so much in the last 10 years or so. We are in a position where our portable classrooms should be coming to an end." The new building will have eight classrooms and should be finished in time for the new school year in September.

@rach_mc94CN

The building process has intrigued the children.

Mr Maguire said: "The children are fascinated. They have seen diggers and the first thing that happened was the demolition of a building on the playground which they loved watching."

Building work started on Monday.

As part of the development the current school building will also be updated.

HEALTH

West Suffolk comes top for hip care

WEST Suffolk has been rated top in the east of England for caring for patients with hip fractures.

The latest ratings saw West Suffolk NHS Foundation Trust (WSFT) rise three places on last year to become best in the region and sixth nationally.

Samuel Parsons, orthopaedic consultant at WSFT, said: "Patient care is our priority and it is our team effort and organised approach that enables us to deliver this high quality service for the community."

"For our more elderly patients, hip surgery can really take its toll on their health. They are sometimes very frail when they come to us, so it is paramount that we act quickly to enable them to regain mobility and a good quality of independent life."

An integrated team has introduced regular virtual fracture clinics at West Suffolk Hospital so that patients' immediate care needs are identified and they see the right specialist at the earliest opportunity.

The trust beat national averages across the board with 88.2 per cent of patients having surgery on or the day after admission compared to a national average of just 71.5 per cent. The average overall hospital stay was 17 days compared to a national average of 21.

LEISURE

New playground may be ready for Easter opening

RACHAEL MCMENEMY
@rach_mc94CN

CHILDREN will have a new playground in Haverhill's East Town Park in time for the spring.

The playground is part of a £100,000 revamp of the play park area.

St Edmundsbury Borough Council hopes the new playground will be open in time for the Easter holidays, weather permitting

Cllr Joanna Rayner, St Edmundsbury Borough Council cabinet member for leisure and culture, said: "The play area at East Town Park is undergoing an exciting major transformation over these winter months that will see it dramatically increase in size to around four times as big as the old facility."

The council is spending £70,000 on the playground.

The play area has had no major refurbishment for 20 years with the exception of one new climbing frame.

The updated playground will be packed with new equipment including a zip wire.

The work is being carried out as

WINNING DESIGN: plans for East Town Park play area

To comment on this story visit cambridge-news.co.uk/all-about/haverhill part of scheduled refurbishment organised by the borough council.

The previous playground was closed and the equipment removed just before Christmas.

The council said this was to cause the least disruption since fewer children use the area during winter.

Parents and the group Friends of East Town Park were both consulted before a decision was made about the proposed changes.

Cllr Rayner said: "We had eight designs submitted for the project, and the design by Wicksteed Leisure was chosen following consultation with The Friends of East Town Park, as well as a group of local parents all of whom had children of varying ages that use the park."

As part of improvements £30,000 will also be spent on new kiosk facilities. The kiosk will have a visitors centre and sell snacks and drinks.

CRIME

Thieves steal garden tools

THIEVES have stolen garden tools during two break-ins on the same night.

The thefts happened in Stoke-by-Clare between 4pm on January 16 and 9.15am the next day.

At one property, thieves broke the padlock on a shed before stealing numerous garden tools.

Included in the haul was a chainsaw, a power saw, a silver hedge cutter and a lawn mower.

No force was used to get into a shed at the other property but again a lawn mower was stolen.

Police believe these thefts may be connected to a spate of four similar overnight thefts in Lower Street, Stansfield the previous week.

Police are appealing for anyone with information about the thefts or property stolen to contact them on 101.

Young Chinese students start month-long exchange visit

RACHAEL MCMENEMY

@rach_mc94CN

BARNARDISTON Hall Preparatory School has opened its doors to a group of 23 Chinese pupils as part of a month-long visit.

The Haverhill school was asked if it could host a cultural exchange involving children from the city of Shenzhen.

This is the second visit to the area by a Chinese school, following last week's visit to Westfield Primary Academy by Shanghai maths masters.

While boarding at Barnardiston Hall school, the Chinese pupils, aged 6 to 13, and their two teachers, are sitting in on lessons.

Neo, 10, said: "I very much like the school, especially the lessons. I have made many friends and I love the English food! The English children have been very kind to me and I love being here."

The school has enforced an English-only policy to help the Chinese pupils improve their language skills but Barnardiston pupils are being given the opportunity to learn some basic Mandarin.

Pupils were paired up through a buddy scheme to encourage friendships and make the Chinese visitors feel less homesick.

While they are here, the school will host a Chinese New Year Party with English and Chinese party games.

The two visiting Chinese teachers will prepare traditional food and all the children are working together to create lanterns and a traditional Chinese dragon for the event.

Natasha McGregor, 13, a pupil at Barnardiston, said: "I really enjoy having the Chinese students here, they are great fun to be with. They are very good at maths, much better than me, and their English is better than my Mandarin! I am really looking forward to the Chinese New Year Party."

Visits into Haverhill and nearby villages for shopping and sightseeing have also formed part of the cultural exchange.

School registrar Lesley Gundersen said the Chinese visitors were most excited about their trips to the Harry Potter studios and the Cadbury factory.

It is hoped the visit will become an annual event.

Homes & Gardens

Love your home and garden this Winter

There's lots of ways to attract birds into the garden

NO DOUBT bird feeders and baths will be filled by many of us in the run-up to the annual Big Garden Birdwatch, the world's largest garden wildlife survey, which this year takes place from January 28-30.

Yet there are other ways to attract birds to your garden in the long term if you plant species which will provide them with both food and shelter.

Blackbirds and thrushes love the fruits and berries of plants including rowan, berberis and pyracantha, while ivy berries, which ripen later, are invaluable to hungry birds in late winter and early spring when food can be scarce.

If you have room, consider planting an apple tree – birds love cooking, dessert apples and crab apples, whose windfalls can provide them with food in the leaner months. Early varieties of eating apples such as 'Beauty of Bath' and 'Discovery' don't keep well, so pick and eat what you need and leave the rest for your blackbirds, song and mistle thrushes, chaffinches, redwings and fieldfares.

Of course, you don't want the birds stripping your garden of all its colour, so consider planting some shrubs whose fruits they don't particularly like, including skimmia, aucuba and the guelder rose (Viburnum opulus).

Hedging can also provide a great nesting site for birds, shelter during frosty nights and food. Bare root hedging is widely available from nurseries and garden centres from November to mid-April.

Holly is slow-growing, but is among the most effective hedges for birds. It ensures windproof shelter on frosty nights, nesting opportunities in spring and berries that attract blackbirds, thrushes and other birds. In spring, insects will be attracted to its flowers.

Plant wildlife-friendly vegetation, such as prickly bushes and thick climbers in the garden to provide secure cover for birds. These should be close enough to where birds feed to provide cover, but not so close that cats can use it to stalk birds. This kind of planting may also provide food and nesting sites.

If you can bear to have an area of brambles in a quiet corner of the garden, birds should gravitate towards it. Blackbirds, thrushes, chaffinches, starlings, robins, pheasants, foxes, mice and other small mammals eat the fruits, while robins, wrens, thrushes, blackbirds, warblers and finches will nest in bramble and small mammals use it for protection from predators.

So, what are we likely to see during Big Garden Birdwatch?

Sightings of well-known species such as starlings and song thrushes experienced another drop during the event last year, although we spotted more than 8.5 million birds in total. The house sparrow remained top of the Big Garden Birdwatch rankings, with starling and blue tit rounding off the top three.

Daniel Hayhow, RSPB conservation scientist, says: "With over half a million people now regularly taking part, coupled with over 30 years worth of data, Big Garden Birdwatch allows us to monitor trends and helps us understand how birds are doing.

SPOON-BILLED SANDPIPERS:
They appreciate food

"With results from so many gardens, we are able to create a 'snapshot' of the birds visiting at this time of year across the UK. Even if you see nothing during your Big Garden Birdwatch hour, that's important information too, so please let us know."

CLEAR UP: Members of the new action group All Terrain UK tidied up the old Roman road at Linton.

New group cleans up 'green lane'

A NEW action group is waging war on countryside litter. All Terrain UK is a 4x4 user group which wants to protect country 'green lanes' and preserve the right to use them. The group was launched in the first week of January and the majority of the group's founders are from Cambridgeshire, including Linton. A team of volunteers tackled their first project on Saturday by clearing up rubbish from a section of an old Roman road at Linton. The 'green lane' is just off the road from Linton to Balsham.

All Terrain was alerted to the litter at the end of December. The new action group members filled a skip provided by Cambridgeshire County Council with the rubbish. More information about the group can be found at www.allterrainuk.com

ON STAGE: Black Magic – The Little Mix Show at Haverhill Arts Centre on February 14

THE arts centre has a great line-up for the next Monkey Nuts Comedy Club: Paul Tonkinson, who Michael McIntyre describes as 'hilarious', Sean Patton, who the New York Times says is 'dynamite', and Alistair Williams who won the Piccadilly Comedy Club's New Comedian of the Year 2014.

Chase away the long, cold winter blues on Sunday, January 29, at 8pm. Please note that, as ever, the line-up is subject to change.

■ The first event in February is a live broadcast from the National Theatre that has a strapline of 'Music. Power. Jealousy.' No, it's not chronicling a spat between Simon Cowell and Louis Walsh but that 18th Century rivalry between Mozart and Salieri.

When Wolfgang Amadeus, a rowdy young prodigy arrives in Vienna, Salieri, the court composer, is torn between admiration for the upstart genius and a more base desire to pulverise him out of existence. Lucien Msamati plays the potential pulveriser on Thursday, February 2, at 7pm.

■ If you are a fan of Kate Bush and you missed out on her recent shows then this next event is for you. Cloudbusting is the UK's longest running and most applauded Kate Bush tribute. Mandy Watson as the voice of Kate encompasses her range with accuracy but not caricature. Sit back and absorb such favourites as Wuthering Heights, Babooshka and This Woman's Work on Friday, February 3.

■ Brass United, on Sunday, February 5, at 7.30pm is a household of three with Haverhill

Youth and Community Band, Hadstock Silver Band and Tube – the brass quintet with a difference. The bands will play separately and then come together for a rousing finale.

■ Saturday, February 11, sees the return of the Table Top Sale, it's like a car-boot but with less frost-bite. Go along for 10am to grab the bargains.

■ Later on Saturday the arts centre has another welcome return visit, this time from Uncle Funk and the Boogie Wonderband with funk and disco hits from the 70s. Party time is 8pm. Wear fancy dress, if you fancy, the band certainly will.

■ Films start off with A United Kingdom on January 30, in which a white English woman in 1948 marries a young African Prince. They may be madly in love but that won't stop them falling foul of the establishment, in a rather big way. I, Daniel Blake which has won plaudit upon plaudit, is showing again on Tuesday, January 31. Ken Loach tells the story of Daniel who is unable to work due to bad health but then falls foul of the system and finds himself in an impossible situation. On Wednesday, February 1, Tom Hanks, plays Sully in Clint Eastwood's latest directorial docudrama in which Captain Chesley Sullenburger saves all the passengers aboard his plane by landing in the Hudson River but then falls foul of the system.

■ Forthcoming events that may tickle your ivories are the selling fast Black Magic – The Little Mix Show (February 14), Rapunzel and the Tower of Doom (February 15) a hair-raising riff on a tangled old tale.

Running is not good for my health

HAVE mentioned before that my chosen form of exercise is running. Running is terrible, but I chose it because the other options were out of the question.

Swimming, for instance, is not for me. I am not massively keen on putting my face in the water because I have heard that water makes you drown and I cannot trust myself to breathe at the right time.

As a result, I swim at roughly a 45-degree angle, which means I do not glide through the water like a porpoise. Rather, I drag myself through the water, like a man crawling through the desert.

The gym, equally, is not for me. I tried it for a couple of weeks, when I was a much younger man, and found it like an adventure playground in which every piece of equipment is designed to hurt you.

So that leaves me with running. I do not run because I like it. I run because it is the only thing that might keep me from dying before I qualify for a pension.

But the thing about running is that it is very boring. It is just putting one foot in front of the other over and over again until you stop - like life, only marginally faster.

Obviously, this has an effect on you. On your run you notice very mundane things, and your brain tricks you into thinking they are interesting just so that you do not die of boredom. "Oh, look," you think, "the branch on that tree is a bit like that other branch I passed eight minutes ago," or "Ooh, that jogger's got a white earphone cable like mine, I wonder what sort of phone she has."

It means your standards for what is interesting are lowered dramatically. This is why runners always tell you about how they are runners and how far they have run and post it on social media. They don't know how boring that stuff is. Runners are basically the vegans of the exercise world.

So I am going to tell you about my run the other day because I am not sure if this is interesting or not. I am going to count on your good manners either way.

I went for my run through the nearby park while it rained. I judged that it would keep my interest levels high. I might have seen a remarkable branch or some well turned-out railings.

But the problem with running through parks is that it increases your chances of encountering the natural predator of the runner: the small yappy dog.

It is not so much the fear of being bitten on the ankle - although that is a factor - it is more the fear of treading on the dog.

And small yappy dogs hunt in packs and are, it appears, invariably tethered to their owners by those retractable leads, which means that, as they run in front of you, they lay tripwires.

So, when on my run I approached a fork in the path, and on the right-hand path there was a cluster of small yappy dogs. I naturally took the left, next to a bubbling stream.

And there I met a Rottweiler, off its lead, its owner texting away and not massively attentive. I am naturally wary of Rottweilers, and before you write in and say, "Oh, I've got a Rottweiler, and he's never attacked anybody", remember that is like saying, "I have never been beaten in mortal combat".

The fact is, if I am attacked by a small yappy dog, it is an inconvenience and a tetanus jab. If I am attacked by a Rottweiler, I am toast, and I don't care how friendly your Tyson is.

I continued running, remembering that showing fear was probably a bad idea, but the Rottweiler decided I was scared anyway, and made a beeline for my crotch.

I dodged, and ran off the path onto the bank by the stream. But the rain had made the bank muddy, and I skidded. Somehow, I managed to fling my right leg onto the path again, staying upright while turning my ankle and running while the Rottweiler switched its attention to my rear end.

But the residual mud on my trainer made me slip again and I fell hard against a tree.

The dog, tired of my antics, ran off to its still-texting and oblivious owner. I, on the other hand, limped home bruised. Running is terrible.

Mmmmm. Fast food

On the plus side, it does make you run more quickly

Dev Patel as the older Saroo

Nicole Kidman as Sue Brierley, David Wenham as her husband John, and Sunny Pawar as a young Saroo

Lion could be a king at the Oscars

HOME is where the heart is, but when memories of that place of sanctuary are cruelly stolen at an early age, can you truly be at peace?

One man's extraordinary true-life odyssey - to locate the birth mother and older brother he lost at the age of five - provides the inspiration for Garth Davis' life-affirming drama, which looks set for recognition in multiple categories at next month's Academy Awards.

Screenwriter Luke Davies has skilfully adapted the non-fiction book A Long Way Home by Saroo Brierley, elegantly cutting back and forth between traumatic events more than 20 years apart to accompany the lead character on his seemingly hopeless quest for emotional closure.

Dev Patel and Sunny Pawar are both terrific as the 26-year-old and five-year-old incarnations of

Saroo, who is unexpectedly transplanted from Khandwa, where family and friends speak Hindi, to the giddy whirl of Calcutta, where residents speak Bengali, and then onto Australia.

Cinematographer Greig Fraser captures these three locations on two continents in rich and meticulous detail, providing a compelling backdrop to the heart-wrenching trials and tribulations that will reduce audiences to puddles of saltwater emotion.

Saroo (Sunny Pawar) lives in 1987 Khandwa with his mother Kamla (Priyanka Bose) and siblings.

The five-year-old idolises his 12-year-old brother Guddu (Abhishek Bharate) and the two boys embark on a night-time excursion to the local railway station.

A horrible twist of fate separates the children and Saroo is trapped aboard a train, which heads 1,600km east to the bustling shanty towns of Calcutta.

Unable to speak the language, the boy eventually meets Saroj Sood (Deepti Naval), who runs the Indian Society for Sponsorship and Adoption and places him with adoptive parents John and Sue Brierley (David Wenham, Nicole Kidman) in Hobart, Tasmania.

Many years later, Saroo (now played by Patel) is enrolled on a course at the Royal Melbourne College of Hotel Management and casually confesses details of his past to other Indian students.

They encourage him to use online satellite mapping software to trace the railway line from Calcutta back west.

Fellow student Lucy (Rooney Mara) pledges her support to Saroo, whose studies suffer as he stares at pixels on his laptop screen, looking in vain for a station with a water tower that might be Khandwa.

Lion is a majestic, heartfelt drama that delivers an almighty emotional wallop as Saroo gradually pieces together his past.

Director Davis deftly moves between timeframes as he elicits riveting performances from Patel, Pawar and Kidman as a proud mother who will never stand in the way of her beautiful boy tracing his bloodline.

If a few stony-hearted souls remain steadfastly dry-eyed to the end, real-life footage over the credits and an explanation of the film's enigmatic title set to the soaring vocals of Australian chart-topper Sia, will prize open the floodgates.

JACKIE (15)

TOWARDS the conclusion of Chilean director Pablo Larrain's unconventional biopic of Jacqueline Kennedy, the former first First Lady muses on the celebrity that consumed her.

"I never wanted fame," she responds coolly. "I just became a Kennedy."

That feeling of impotence in the eye of a media storm informs many pivotal scenes in Jackie, a bravura portrait of a wife and mother struggling to come to terms with sudden loss whilst publicly remaining strong for her children and the American people.

Screenwriter Noah Oppenheim sensitively imagines grief behind closed doors to piece together events before and after the fateful motorcade in Dallas, Texas on November 22, 1963. Scenes of Jackie (Natalie Portman) trembling with shock as she wipes make-up and her husband's blood from her face in the aftermath of the shooting are horribly compelling, as is the moment she must break the devastating news to her two children.

Larrain's film is a mesmerising kaleidoscope of real and imagined details, galvanized by Portman's haunting embodiment of a widow in emotional isolation.

"It's been just one week and already they're treating him like some dusty old artefact, to be shelved away," despairs Jackie, fearing the memory of her husband will be lost in time like so many of his predecessors.

The colourful and complex mosaic of Larrain's vision ensures that the woman, who stood proudly beside JFK, won't be forgotten.

MANCHESTER BY THE SEA (15)

LEE Chandler (Casey Affleck) works as a janitor in a small apartment building. It's an unedifying existence and Lee unfairly channels his resentment at the tenants. Out of the blue, Lee receives a telephone call from family friend George (CJ Wilson). His older brother Joe (Kyle Chandler) has suffered a heart attack. By the time Lee arrives at the hospital, Joe has passed and the younger sibling must break the tragic news to his truculent 16-year-old nephew, Patrick (Lucas Hedges).

A meeting with the family lawyer reveals that Joe named Lee as Patrick's legal guardian. But Lee is reluctant to be a parent again after the breakdown of his marriage. They both muddle through grief and misunderstanding as they make preparations for Joe's funeral.

Manchester By The Sea is anchored by Affleck's understated yet devastating portrayal, and the touching on-screen chemistry with co-star Hedges.

Casey Affleck as Lee

LA LA LAND (12A)

ASPIRING actress Mia (Emma Stone) works as a barista in between auditions, which repeatedly end in crushing rejection. On a traffic-jammed Los Angeles freeway, she crosses paths with talented pianist Sebastian (Ryan Gosling), who reveres jazz in its purest form, but is forced to play saccharine standards by restaurant owner Bill (JK Simmons).

Sebastian is convinced he can spearhead a new appreciation for music until an old classmate, Keith (John Legend), questions his devotion to masters of a bygone era. Frustrations between the couple come to a head in a fractious and fro about artistic integrity.

La La Land is a perfect marriage of directorial brio, tour-de-force performance and jaw-dropping production design. Gosling and Stone are individually luminous and electrifying as a double-act in high energy song and dance sequences.

A MONSTER CALLS (12A)

RECLUSIVE schoolboy Conor O'Malley (Lewis MacDougall) is in denial about the dark shadow hanging over his mother Lizzie (Felicity Jones). He soaks up physical abuse at school from a bully and seeks refuge each night in his vivid illustrations.

As darkness falls and midnight strikes, the yew tree which stands guard over the nearby church magically comes to life and morphs into a gnarled creature (voiced by Liam Neeson).

The behemoth visits Conor and promises to share three parables. The creature demands just one thing from Conor in return: "Tell me your nightmare." Each night, the creature spins his yarn and the boy listens intently, searching for meaning in the words. But he only finds bitterness and confusion.

What are hydrogen cars and how do they work?

SOME alternatively-fuelled power options are well-known now. Electric cars, for instance, are gaining popularity and are becoming a common sight on UK roads, especially within cities.

Hydrogen-powered cars, however, are a slightly rarer sight. The technology they use is in its relative infancy, which means not a lot is known about how they work and the benefits they bring. We're going to find out.

First of all, just how do hydrogen cars work? Well, in fuel cell cars, power is generated by reacting hydrogen with oxygen. The energy that comes from this reaction is then stored in the car's batteries. The electricity stored here then runs the electric motors which then power the wheels. It's better to think of a hydrogen car as an electric vehicle that is able to charge itself up. At higher speeds, the car can use its supply of hydrogen to directly power the motor, instead of recharging the car's onboard batteries.

The benefit of this? Hydrogen isn't used as an existing energy source, like

Hydrogen cars could solve many transportation problems. Jack Evans explains

HYDROGEN: A rare sight today, but with everything to play for going forward fossil fuels. Because hydrogen is in such abundance in our atmosphere, there's a plentiful supply, too.

The best part? The only thing it emits is water. It also takes a matter of minutes to refill a hydrogen car, compared to several hours to charge one powered by electricity alone.

However, there are a few drawbacks. Hydrogen, though plentiful in our atmosphere, is incredibly difficult to produce. Although there's lots of it about, it's most frequently found in compounds such as water – which makes it difficult to separate. Because of the huge amount of energy needed to isolate the hydrogen, fossil fuels are required – which goes against the efficiency of the car.

Environmentally-friendly ways of producing hydrogen do exist, but they're expensive and can't create it in great enough quantities to be useful. So the only easy way of producing hydrogen is with fossil fuels.

There are other drawbacks, too. Currently, there are only two hydrogen cars on sale in the UK today – the Hyundai ix35 and the Toyota Mirai. Choice of cars, therefore, is somewhat limited. Also, because hydrogen needs to be contained securely and at high pressure, these cars need to carry large tanks, which take up quite a lot of space inside the car.

You'll also have to ensure you're within range of a hydrogen filling station. Currently, there are just eight filling stations in the UK – with three located in the London area alone. Though more are planned, for now it means you'll have to be conscious of how far you need to travel to fill up.

Lastly, and quite importantly, the cars are quite expensive. The Mirai costs from £53,105, while the Mirai commands more of a premium at £63,100. Filling them up will cost around £65, and you'll get similar fuel economy figures to a regular diesel car.

For now, hydrogen cars are slightly hampered by a lack of infrastructure and the cost of creating their fuel in the first place. However, with more research and a lowering of price, hydrogen cars may yet turn out to be the smart choice for those looking to get around in the most economical fashion possible.

NEW NAVARA: Satnav, sensors

Nissan unveils new Navara pick-up option

NISSAN has revealed a new special edition of its Navara pick-up truck at the Brussels Motor Show.

Dubbed Trek-1Å° – a reference to the longitude of the Navarre desert in Spain – the newcomer differentiates itself from the top-spec Tekna with a range of extra equipment.

Customers will be able to choose from two colours – Pearllescent White and Black Metallic – as well as two power outputs. The basic engine is a 158bhp version of the Navara's 2.3-litre diesel motor, but there is an option to upgrade to a more potent 187bhp variant, which is also offered with a seven-speed automatic transmission.

Inside, the Trek-1Å° specification comes with satnav, rear parking sensors and a 360-degree parking camera. Prices are expected to start at £32,000.

POPULAR: The BMW 4 Series

BMW 4 Series gets 2017 makeover

BMW introduced the sporty 4 Series in 2013 and the Coupe, Convertible and Gran Coupe versions have been given a makeover for 2017.

It has been a popular choice in the UK with sales here only being beaten in the US and even outselling those bought in BMW's homeland of Germany.

There's a wide choice of power plant on the latest 4 Series. It is available with three petrol engines offering the following power ratings: the 420i with 184bhp, the 430i with 252bhp and the top-of-the-range 440i with 326bhp.

Claimed combined fuel consumption is 35.8-51.4mpg, while CO2 emissions range from 127g/km to 185g/km.

Prices start at £32,525 for the 420i and on up to £64,110 for the top-spec M4 convertible.

RATED: The Volkswagen Tiguan

Emergency services opt for the Tiguan

THE Volkswagen Tiguan was the most popular new car amongst UK police, NHS and fire service staff last year, according to new car guide published by Motor Source Group, an online car dealership specifically for public service workers.

The highly rated Volkswagen SUV pipped the Suzuki Vitara (2) and Citroen Grand C4 Picasso (3) as the top car for public service professionals in 2016. Also in the top five were the Skoda Superb (4) and Audi A3 (5).

Motor Source Group's Top 10 Cars for Public Servants Ranking, is based on new car sales made exclusively to public servants in the UK and features feedback from a wide range of automotive experts and existing drivers.

Hyundai reveals details of i30 ahead of March launch

HYUNDAI has announced the pricing and specifications for its all-new i30 hatchback, which is set to go on sale on March 1.

There are five different specification levels available on the i30: S, SE, SE Nav, Premium and Premium SE.

Pricing for the entry-level S model with a 1.0-litre, 118bhp petrol engine and six-speed manual gearbox starts at £16,995, while the top-of-the-line Premium SE with a 1.6-litre, 109bhp diesel engine and a seven-speed dual-clutch automatic transmission will cost £24,745.

Cars in SE trim are priced from £18,695, while i30s in SE Nav specification will cost upwards of £19,645. Prices for Premium specification vehicles start at £22,195. Customers will have a choice of one diesel and two petrol engines, as well as either a six-speed manual or seven-speed dual-clutch transmission depending on specification level.

The sole diesel engine is a 1.6-litre CRDi unit that produces 109bhp. In terms of petrol engines, customers will be able to choose between either a 1.0-litre T-GDi unit that puts out 118bhp, or a 1.4-litre T-GDi that develops 138bhp.

THE HYUNDAI I30: Five different specs available at launch include estate and hatchback offerings

The entire range of i30s offer a high level of standard safety equipment that includes lane departure warning, forward collision warning, lane keep assist, autonomous emergency braking and hill start assist systems.

In terms of standard features, S-specification i30s get 15-inch alloys, LED daytime running lights, DAB radio and Bluetooth, auxiliary and USB connectivity.

Vauxhall unveils its new Crossland SUV

Vauxhall has taken the wraps off its latest model, the Crossland X, which will compete in the fast-growing SUV sector and sit below its existing slightly larger Mokka X.

The Crossland X will be up against rivals such as the Renault Captur and Peugeot 2008 and Vauxhall says the newcomer, which goes on sale in summer, has a firm family focus offering "Tardis-like" cabin space providing a high degree of practicality and flexibility.

At just 4.21 metres in length the Crossland X is more compact than the Mokka X, and a full 16cm shorter than the Astra hatchback, which will offer easier driving and manoeuvring in towns and cities.

It also has the advantage of an elevated seating position and an overall height, which is raised ten centimetres above the Astra's.

Another useful feature of the new SUV is the ability to slide the rear seats back or forwards to allow more space for legroom or boot space which can offer a class-leading 410 litres with the rear seats up. When the rear seats are folded down completely, luggage capacity increases to an impressive 1,255 litres.

The Crossland X will come with a goodly set of gear to make driving safer and more comfortable, and include a 180-degree panoramic rear-view camera, advanced park assist, forward collision alert with pedestrian detection and autonomous emergency braking, lane departure warning, speed sign recognition and side blind-spot alert, among others kit.

Drivers will also benefit from modern connectivity that is becoming the norm in Vauxhall models. The Vauxhall OnStar connectivity system, as well as the IntelliLink infotainment equipment which is compatible with Apple CarPlay and Android Auto, keeps drivers connected through an up to eight-inch colour touchscreen.

As far as engines go, Vauxhall has not given details of what will be under the bonnet of the Crossland X but says that an extensive petrol/diesel engine line up with manual and automatic transmissions will be offered.

No prices have been announced for the newcomer to the Vauxhall stable but the entry level Crossland X is likely to come in at around the £15,000 mark.

CLINICAL UNIT, CAMBRIDGE - WORKING WITH A MAJOR PHARMACEUTICAL COMPANY

MANUFACTURING/PHARMACY TECHNICIAN – FULL TIME

Assist with the preparation of a range of drug dosage forms for administration in early phase clinical trials. Role specific training will be given. There is a requirement to work within the industry's regulatory framework whilst adhering to clinical trial protocols. Good attention to detail and excellent written documentation skills are required. You will work within a multidisciplinary team that offers knowledgeable advice on the preparation of pharmaceutical compounds to other technical teams. There is a need to interact with a wide range of clinical/scientific teams to ensure correct working practices are in place, and timelines are defined & met within this challenging environment. Previous experience in dispensing clinical trial medicines or in a pharmaceutical manufacturing environment is an advantage. Work regularly involves early mornings to assist in preparing clinical trial material for dosing at or before 9am. Basic computer/keyboard skills are a requirement for the preparation of documentation.

CLINICAL TRIAL SYSTEM SUPPORT – FULL TIME

Educated to A-level standard or equivalent. Knowledge/experience in eDC, ORACLE, SQL. Experience in managing scientific/laboratory applications, end user training & support operations. Extensive knowledge of clinical pharmacology business and practices. Excellent oral, written & presentation skills. Knowledge and experience working under GxP and FDA regulations. The end to end clinical trial process is underpinned by the study management system called Phase I Information Management System (PIMS). This role is primarily to use the system and support other users of the system in conducting early phase clinical trials. Full training in the system will be provided so PIMS experience is not essential. The job holder will lead the PIMS database setup activities for studies ensuring that all study setups meet the requirements of the study team. Work closely with study data managers to ensure study set up meets requirements for data extraction to required standards. Participate in team discussions which impact study design and conduct. Provide end user training and support for the system at the clinical unit.

TECHNICAL COORDINATOR – FULL TIME

Project management for changes to a range of equipment within the clinical unit including: risk management/change controls, leading discussions between project teams, the clinical unit & vendors. Arranging for removal/decommissioning/loaning of equipment; purchase, delivery & insertion of new equipment. Commissioning of new equipment & assisting in equipment validation. Manage projects requiring bespoke equipment, understanding project team requirements, arranging production/acquiring parts to build equipment. Understand and train users to correctly handle data to simplify data management at the end of studies. Manage equipment servicing/maintenance with internal partners. Engaging with company partners to ensure correct infrastructure is available for equipment if necessary. Resolve technical issues with equipment being used on studies and engaging with vendors to resolve technical issues or liaise with internal partners to arrange vendor visits.

If you would be interested in any of the above positions, please forward your CV by email, including complete career history to:

Boro break down fortress Framlingham

HAVERRHILL Borough beat Framlingham Town 4-2, inflicting only the second home Thurlow Nunn League, First Division defeat of the season on the hosts.

Boro went in front after three minutes through an own goal and Ryan Phillips made it 2-0 shortly afterwards.

Football

Framlingham pulled a goal back before the break and then equalised in the 53rd minute.

But Aaron Forshaw restored the visitors' lead with 20 minutes left and six minutes later he struck again to seal the win.

Haverhill Rovers lost 3-0 at home to Felixstowe & Walton United.

Owen Longley had Rovers' best chance early on but by the half hour they were 2-0 down.

Luke Haines had a shot saved for Rovers, but in the 64th minute Felixstowe added a third with a glancing header into the far bottom corner.

Honours for Williams and Stokes

TWO Haverhill Golf Club members picked up prizes at the AGM of the Suffolk Ladies' Golf Association.

Mandy Williams collected the Silver Medal for the best round in the county in 2016, while Fiona Stokes was awarded the Eve Harris Shield for Junior of the Year.

Back on the course 12 members

took part in the 10-hole team Texas Scramble.

The informal competition sees short and full course members all play together, with team-mates Celia Bramwell and Karen Young winning in a score of nine over par.
